

terrorist attacks. The total number of casualties from the terrorist bombings in the capital Algiers on April 11 and Dec. 11 of 2007 reached nearly 300, arousing great concern from the international community. The turbulence and instability in Algeria's security situation to a certain extent reflects the protracted nature, arduousness and complexity of the struggle between the government and people of Algeria and Islamic fundamentalist forces. This article tries to follow the growth trail of Algeria's Islamic fundamentalist forces by analyzing their history and the status quo.

Key Words Islamic Fundamentalism; Islamic Salvation Front; Muslim Brotherhood; Al Qaeda
